At the top of the provisional ranking, the heads-up continues among the three favorite crews. At the end of the precision test 27 - Mercatino Conca 6, Giovanni Moceri and Daniele Bonetti (Team Alfa Romeo) are currently in first position, on board an Alfa Romeo 6C 1500 SS of 1928, with 17596; in second place the duo Andrea Vesco-Andrea Guerini (Team Villa Trasqua), with an Alfa Romeo 6C 1750 SS Zagato of 1929, with 17514 points; in third place the Bugatti Type 40 of 1927 by Juan Tonconogy and Barbara Ruffini who have so far totaled 16893 points.

The spring that is arriving late, with temperatures below the seasonal average and with a variable of the sky over the event, has not held back the curiosity and enthusiasm of many women and men, young and old. Several school children lined up along the roads of the route.

“The first part of this second leg was very demanding from all points of views, both for the team and for the cars. This was a new route for the 1000 Miglia, it has several hairpin bends and very extreme technical checks, even extreme ones. We have struggled to meet the deadlines but despite this we have given a lot of trouble to get the car working hard. In the management of the 1000 Miglia it is in fact necessary to preserve the car, to arrive this evening in Rome but above all Saturday in Brescia ”.

This is the comment of the leading duo Mocerì-Bonetti, leading the momentary classification.
